At my core, I believe everyone deserves a work culture that is diverse and inclusive, drives creativity and rewards authenticity. The problem is not many people know how to do this. As a Gallup Certified CliftonStrengths Coach, with over 13 years of corporate experience, I want to help you create this winning culture through “Conscious Collaboration,” – a state where team members have optimal performance by intentionally leveraging their strengths to grow their competencies, communication and confidence.

Through a series of coaching conversations, we will take a deep dive into your current team dynamics and develop a strategy for you to optimize opportunities for each member of your team to be uniquely seen and contribute to a shared vision of success.
